

● Col Edwin Aldrin standing beside the massive seismometer, which they left on the lunar surface to record moonquakes. Immediately behind it is the mirror to reflect laser light beams from earth and in the background, beside the module, are the American flag and the small television camera.